

SOURCES FOR THE RESEARCH OF RACE RELATIONS AND BAME WORKERS IN THE TUC LIBRARY COLLECTIONS

The TUC Library Collections transferred to the London Metropolitan University in 1996. The holdings include a full collection of all the publications produced by the TUC and its affiliate unions since its foundation in 1868. The collection predominately covers the UK but also includes sizeable international collections, in particular from the former British colonies. Material also includes campaigns and policy areas with which the TUC and its affiliated unions have been involved. Visit us to view original material that documents the history of:

- Immigration and race relations in the UK
- Equality and anti-discrimination campaigns and legislation
- Significant strikes that have involved BAME workers, such as the 1976 Grunwick dispute
- Race and diversity issues within unions
- Statistics on BAME participation in the labour market

The TUC Library Collections are accessible in the university's Special Collections Reading Room. The collections are available by appointment only for external visitors. See Access details on the Special Collections page of the University website for details.
